Adam Sparks, who runs the saloon where the crap shooters were arrested Saturday night, ran out himself when the raid was made and escaped. An affidavit will be filed against him today, so as to bring him into the collection.

An oyster supper will be given at the Snow Hill union Sunday school chapel, Thursday evening, December 14th. An extra table of cold chicken, ham, etc., will be set for those who prefer these delicacies. Twenty-five cents a plate. Come and help us pay off the debt on our chapel.

Urbana Citizen:—W. A. Hance, of Springfield, was in the city Friday looking after the plat for his addition to the city. He went away a little hot under the collar because the plat was not signed as it should be, and he was knocked out of a sale of two.

One hundred and twenty-one persons took sacrament at St. Paul's church at the close of the morning services yesterday. The Rev. Frank G. Mitchell, presiding elder of the Springfield district, says that that is the largest number that has yet taken sacrament in the district.

A clock-winder named Hyle, living on Rice street, was found lying on south Limestone street with a bloody head. He was left in charge of a colored man while the patrol wagon was being telephoned for, but had disappeared before the wagon arrived. He probably fell and cut his head while drunk.

Bob Boyd, the black fiend, who was fined $15 and costs by Acting Mayor Stout, for beating a woman with whom he has been living, and his fine paid late Saturday night and was liberated. He celebrated the occasion by again beating the woman shamefully and firing her father out of the house. The woman is the wife of George Garvin, and lives in Sharpe's building on east Main street.

Rev. and Mrs. W. H. Warren, of the Congregational church, open their handsome new house on the north side of all their friends, in the church and out of it, tomorrow (Tuesday) evening and we have no doubt the affair will be one of great social attractiveness. Mr. Warren's mother has recently come from Massachusetts to take up her residence with him.

MEMORIAL SERVICES.

The First English Lutheran Sunday School Takes Action on the Death of the Late Daniel Young, Sr.—H. F. DeLo's Biographical Sketch.

At the First English Lutheran Sunday school Sunday morning, appropriate exercises were held in memory of the late venerable Daniel Young, Sr., whose death occurred week before last. Superintendent F. P. Davidson made the opening remarks, testifying to the great faithfulness of Father Young in the Sunday school, and suggesting the erection in the school of a marble tablet to his memory. He was F. Funk, teacher of the senior Bible class, of which deceased was a member, read the following resolutions passed by the class:

Resolved, That in the death of our brother, Daniel Young, Sr., our class has lost its oldest and a most valuable and faithful member, being always present and never tardy, although nearly ninety-one years of age at his death. The church in his death has lost an untiring servant, being a follower of the meek and lowly Jesus for seventy-two years, and for these many years a steadfast and reliable member. We further mourn his loss because we miss in his departure qualities that should characterize every consistent Christian. His kindness, zeal and devotion in this field must ever dear his memory to us and make us strive to emulate his example.

Resolved, That these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of the class and a copy thereof be furnished to the family of Daniel Young and that the resolutions be published in the city papers, and also a copy be forwarded for publication in the Lutheran Observer.

R. F. DeLo then read an interesting biographical sketch of Mr. Young which, owing to press of other matter, the GLOBE REPUBLIC is unable to reproduce entire. The following, however, are copious extracts:

The deceased, Daniel Young, Sr., whose memory we cherish and whose noble life we honor, was born February 7, 1796, in Middletown valley, Md., died at Springfield, Ohio, December 2d, 1888, was aged 90 years, 9 months and 26 days.

He was confirmed in 1814 by Rev. Geo. Grier, pastor of the Evangelical Lutheran church at Middletown, Md. He was a member of the church at Middletown, Md., seventeen years, at Burkettville thirty-three years, and at Springfield a member of this church since September 25th, 1864, a period of over twenty-two years. Although he was a member of the church for a period of over twenty-two years.

His father's name was Conrad Young, and was a native German. Father Young was married in 1818 to Miss Mary Howels, of this Union there were thirteen children, seven sons and six daughters. Mother Young died in 1885. Also seven children, five sons and two daughters, preceded him in death. Two sons, four daughters, thirty-three grandchildren and eight great grandchildren survive him and mourn his loss.

Father Young was in an eminent degree a good man, and when this is said, and truthfully said, no grander nor nobler epitaph can be written or spoken of any man. Common sense, the very best of all senses, characterized his whole life in all his dealings with men, and conduct among men. He was thoughtful, patient and kind in his intercourse with his fellow men. Honest and upright in all his business relations and transactions. As an honest and upright man, he had the respect and confidence of all who knew him, and in passing let it be remembered that honesty has its rewards.

As a member of the church and Sunday school, faithful and always reliable. Think of a man in his ninetieth and ninety-first year hitchhiking in his horse on Sunday morning and driving two miles through storm and sunshine and always in his place in the Sunday school and sanctuary.

The exercises closed by some very pathetic remarks by Dr. Helwig and the singing of "Nearer My God to Thee."

SAVED FROM THE JAWS OF DEATH.

Twenty-five Sailors Escape a Horrible Fate in the Arctic.

A special dispatch from St. John's, N. F., says: The fortunate interception of the Newfoundland whaling steamer Eagle prevented a repetition of starvation and death so mournfully associated with the Greeley Arctic expedition.

The Eagle arrived here yesterday and brought twenty-five Peterhead whalers, who abandoned their vessel on the eastern side of Davis Straits. The following account is gleaned from the officers and crew of the lost whaler:

On the 15th of March the whaling ship Catherine, Captain Benzie, well equipped and manned with a crew of twenty-five men, sailed from Peterhead, Scotland, for Cumberland Gulf and Davis Straits to prosecute whaling and sealing. On the voyage westward as far as the neighborhood of the belting ground, storms and turbulent seas characterized the voyage. The ship rolled and strained and labored heavily. Early in May the Catherine rounded Cape Farewell and was headed for Davis Straits.

The weather was most unpropitious for the prosecution of the voyage and no work was accomplished during the month of May. On the 20th of the month the Catherine leaked so badly that it became necessary to beach the ship and accordingly she was stranded on the eastern side of Davis Straits. She had not been beached long before she fell over on her starboard side. Under the impact of a heavy sea, her bottom and her side were crushed and crushed by the neck of the reef and before evening she was a complete wreck.

Meantime the boats were disengaged from the wrecked Catherine and were crammed with charts and other nautical instruments were saved and placed in the boats and a departure taken for the northward, the most probable route to cross the ice-bound coast.

On Thursday night the homeward-bound whaler, a late Scotch or Newfoundland whaler, two hundred miles of rough water were traversed by the whalers with sails and oars. Ten days and nights were occupied in compassing this distance.

The crew suffered terribly from continuous exposure. Their clothing was meager, and they had no shelter from the elements. They were cramped from being imprisoned in the small space available in a little boat, and a very dismal prospect loomed before them. At length, about 10 o'clock, a small boat was reached, and the whalers landed and halted upon their boats on this island. There they found a station house established and owned by William & Sons, of London. It was very sparsely provisioned, and was controlled by a Russian named Frederick Steinhart
